

The Evolution of Responsible Investing in Indexed Fixed Income

The rotation towards ESG investment is an important trend among investors and ETFs proved useful to transition into responsible investing in a transparent and cost-effective way.

Considered as a reliable tool, ETFs exhibited resilience and transparency during the turbulent market conditions of 2020, while at the same time, benefitting from increased appetite for ESG investments, notably in the Fixed Income area. We believe the rotation towards ESG observed in recent years is set to continue providing investors with more and more sustainable ETF Fixed Income solutions.

Please explore, with our expert Olivier Genin, the potential Fixed Income ESG ETFs can offer to investors.

Olivier Genin

Olivier Genin joined the ETF, Indexing & Smart Beta Business Line of Amundi in 2021 as Deputy-Head of Investment Specialists. In 2015, he was initially part of the team in of the ABS Purchase Program for the European Central Bank then part of the Secured Asset Team looking after European CLO Investments. Before joining Amundi, he was a Partner in a boutique asset manager specialized in opportunistic investment on yielding structured credit assets (mostly junior CLO tranches and deeply discounted ABS) where he spent more than 6 years. Olivier started his career in 2005 as a quantitative analyst on CDO pricing models at BNP AM, before moving to Merrill Lynch, London in 2006 as a CLO structurer, working on various types of underlying assets (Loans, Bonds, SMEs, ...). Olivier holds a master degree in Applied Mathematics from the University of Paris XI and a postgraduate degree in Financial Modeling from the University of Paris VII.

Contact details

Contact: Marco Strohmeier

Phone: +41 44 588 99 36

E-Mail: marco.strohmeier@amundi.com

Website: www.amundiETF.com